Leon Bronstein transforms metal and stone into intimate, elegant, and graceful works of art. A sculptor of remarkable talent, he explores the power and beauty of relationships, magically transforming the human figure into fluid shapes. The year 1980 was a new beginning for him: finding a new path in life through transforming from a technician to a talented sculptor. Expanding his artistry from carving wood to casting bronze, his determination to express freedom fuels his creative power. Bronstein, like many seekers, discovered within himself a source of strength and creative power that would generate an artistic vocation inspired with determination to express a reach for freedom. The whole of his development as a sculptor is an attempt to understand and realize more completely what form and shape are about in reaction to life.
